Test Review

The following terms will be included on your test. It is not a vocabulary test. You must know more than just the definition. You must be able to identify examples of them in a reading selection.

Define and give an example of each term from one of the selections that we have read in class so far on your own paper.

Use the story “Eleven” by Sandra Cisneros to answer the following practice questions. These will be like the questions on your test.

1. What internal conflict did Rachel face in the story?

2. What does Rachael compare herself to in the 3rd paragraph? (There are 3 different things) Why does she compare herself to these things?

3. Why is Rachael so upset about the red sweater?

4. What is it that Rachael keeps looking forward to happening at home later? Why does she keep thinking about this?

5. We can tell that the story is written from a first person point of view. How can we tell?

6. How is the setting significant to the story?

7. What bothers Rachael about being eleven?
